Petroye [and others]. Kyiv: Yuston, 202___. Issue XX(XX). XXX p. (Category «B»)

ISBN 978-617-8335-20-5 (provided by the publishing house that issues)

Modern socio-economic transformations, the development of business and public administration necessitate the scientific understanding of new approaches to management, economic and social processes. Interdisciplinary research aimed at the analysis of economic transformations, European integration, digitalization, sustainable development and interaction of the state, business and society is gaining importance. The collection highlights the results of fundamental and applied scientific research in the fields of social and behavioral sciences, economics, international economic relations, public management and administration. Theoretical generalizations, empirical studies and analytical materials are presented, which are distinguished by scientific novelty and practical significance.

The collection is of interest to scientists, teachers, applicants for scientific degrees, civil servants, business representatives and everyone who is interested in the problems of economic development, management and social transformations.
